

Our core products comprise the complete equipment of ball mills as well as separators, pre-grinding equipment and driers which we supply as turnkey projects, single units and/or components. All key components of the grinding plants are our own development and will be adjusted according to the individual needs and requirements of our customers. Our research and process technological department keeps close contact to research institutions and works continuously on the improvement of Brockhausen Engineering products.